

Down for the Count, No Regrets this year, i fear that i'll be swept away, gone from here you see my plea for this sunken diplomacy i miss those talks and fights that kept us up all those nights just as the rains have started now i'll look into my past

and she said if i'm not enough to keep you here then go with no regrets
it's unfortunate that this closure will be a little less than perfect to me this can't be the end of an era well spent the crowns that we wore were made of gold and kept us warm in the cold
