

Dr. Dog, 100 Years

{{Song||Dr. Dog|star=Green}}

When I look back on what I done

About 100 years from now

Gonna cry myself to sleep at night

Somebody shows me how

Uh huh

When the sun shines down whats left of me

About 100 years from now

Gonna cut my water with a rebel yell

And claw my way back to town

100 years

100 years

They'll break me

But I'll break them too

Oh and this years for the brakemen

And this one is for you

When sky cracks open and the thunder comes

About 100 years from now

Gonna bury this old yoke and chain

In the cold wet ground

And when I get off at Tennebrook(??) Farm

About 100 years from now

I'm gonna marry you out of common sense

And get out from behind this plow

100 years

100 years

They'll break me

But I'll break them too

Oh and this years for the brakemen

And this one is for you

100 years

100 years

They'll break me

But I'll break them too

Oh and this years for the brakemen

And this one is for you

</lyrics>

```
{{SongFooter
|artist = Dr. Dog
|album =
|song = 100 Years
|fLetter = 0-9
|video =
|audio =
|language =
|asin =
}}
```