

Drake Bell, Break Me Down

Break me down enough I'll take your side
And all your attitude
I would like for you to just decide What you're gonna do

Maybe I'll decide I've had enough
Of what you put me through Then perhaps you could return my stuff And all my records too my 78's and my 45's give them back a rusted silhoutette embracing burning filament a verbal avalanche is serving up your innocence so bye baby bye Don't try baby try

You can do what you want stay for a while know at the end of the day I still make you smile
hum
hum
hum
hum