

Dropout Year, Hold On Tight

Will we make headlines or fall behind the times?
can we stand out in the crowd to hear them sing out loud?

and were giving in to intuition that's telling us to listen to our talents, tell the scene were on a mission and well take our time to read between the lies of all the cynics just to show them that we're in this

hold on tight for one hell of a night, for the ride of your lifetime.

this is our curtain call, and this is our future calling just to say hello.
this is our curtain call, and this is our future calling just to say that there's more in store for us.

we'll tear the clocks down from our nine to fives, and step in to this moment to leave this world behind hold on tight for one hell of a night, for the ride of your lifetime.

this is our curtain call, and this is our future calling just to say that there's more in store for us.

as we pave the way through the great unknown, we'll leave a trail back to the east coast just to find

this is our curtain call, and this is our future calling just to say hello.
this is our curtain call, and this is our future calling just to say that there's more in store for us
