

Duff McKagan, I Love You

It's been four months since
You gone away
My bed is empty and my heart
Still feels the pain yeah the pain
I see your picture in a magazine
I look away still see you starin' at me
At me

Chorus

I walk the streets at night
And there's no one else in my sight but you

In my mind

Cause I still love you

Yeah I still love you

I

Buy a ticket to a subway train
A one-way token just to end my pain
From you yeah from you
Ticket says destination unknown
The car stops and I'm back at home all alone

Without you without you

Chorus

I walk the streets at night
And there's no one else in my sight but you

In my mind

Cause I still love you

Yeah I still love you

I saw you at a restaurant down on 42nd Street
Drinkin' red wine and laughin'
I kept walkin' by myself with a bottle of rye

I don't need you baby

And you're foolin' yourself when you say

You don't need me

I said you're foolin' yourself

When you say you don't need me

And I'm lyin' fallin' down in the alley

Yeah I'm lyin' to myself as I'm screamin'

Chorus

I saw some chick the other day
She had a smile that looked so cool
It looked like you so I walked away
My eyes are tired but I still look cool
My tears are past

And I don't need you, don't need you, need you

"If you thought I needed you why would I be lookin' at chicks and lookin' at French fashion magazines"
