Duran Duran, The Edge Of America

Walk the edge of America A concrete beach to scrape my hand Inside the subway stinking fear and shame Becomes the violent breath

Vigilantes out on dawn patrol But now there's nothing left to hide I'm just a number on the metal fence Which marks the great divide

Hey boy
Give your dreams a rest
If you're tired of searching
This is where it ends
There's nothing left to lose
Nothing to protest
Learn to love your anger now
Anger here is all you possess
Welcome to the age

Below the towers of the citadel Seems someone overlooked the cost Forgotten soldier of paradise Now paradise is lost

Recognition never realized Salvation lost among the crowd So tell me beside this sterile sea Where is your nation now?

And we say
Hey boy
Give your dreams a rest
If you're tired of searching
This is where it ends
There's nothing left to lose
Nothing to protest
Learn to love your anger now
Anger here is all you possess
Welcome to the edge