

Earlimart, Face Down In The Right Down so you did what you thought was right giving up the fight the only way that we knew was wrong got me hanging on and on it's everything you want and everything you need

and the people were counting on let you down one by one so be sure what you're asking for the telephone don't ring no more
it's everything you want
and everything you need

the right crowd
face down in the right down
no good uptown
and maybe, somehow we'll get back home don't care who walks through the door the life i've paid twice for rearranging the furniture reminds of who you were

it's everything you want
and everything you need

the right crowd
face down in the right down
no good uptown
and maybe, somehow we'll get back home