

Earth Crisis, Born From Pain

Strength. Born from pain. Beyond that of my flesh.
Betrayed, robbed and beaten, but not defeated. Through my search for allies, I have found myself.

Persistence is the answer to regain all that was taken.

Hatred drives me onwards

across to desolation of dying dreams and failure, to find I am my own salvation. From the experience of injustice, from the horror that I have witnessed comes the knowledge that freedom must be won.

Strangled by frustration, no longer will I be my victim. My patience is whaning, now all it takes is one spark to set me off. I have to try to find some peace inside before it gets to late.

Emancipate my mind. Breathing life into my visions, forcing them into reality.

From paradise into the inferno, into paradise, into paradise.