

Echobelly, Worms And Angels

here and now, we are alone time she will hold her breath only the worms and angels know our names but they have not found us although they surround us I see the distance closing come along for you and I know we've lived through the centuries we've ridden the darkest horses all our lives we've hunted our enemies we've fought with the fallacy it's time we were all gods children far away the galaxies soar the stars are exploding still I wish we could fly away, fly away here and now
that true love is deathless these crumbling days are ending by my side
we'll walk in the garden we'll sleep in the ivy we be with the worms and angels
