Eddy, At the end of time The farm was still standing at the end of the road And the mailbox still carried our name In spite of