

Eldritch, Bittersweet Penny

Million things to say, million brains to waste million my mistakes, million things never change millions make you talk, millions make you walk millions heal your pain, millions and a life can change

Within your life, can't live without 'em within your mind, you're addicted

Can't exchange a coin for life

When you're feeling sick, when you need a brick to wash away a stain, or if there's something in your brain the need to change a gear, or maybe disappear just only for a beer, money! and everything is clear

Within your life, can't live without 'em
within your mind, you're addicted

Can't exchange a coin for life