

Electronic, Haze

I'm here alone all by myself with no one else
I need someone to share these thoughts about myself
I don't know who I can trust
This picture's starting to rust
And as I press upon myself a form of torture
I write these words for someone else just like an author
I don't know who I can trust
I don't know who I can trust

Everybody, won't you come with me?
We'll take a ride across the sea
When we get there if we don't drown
I'll turn your whole world upside down

And later on with each illegal breath I take
I lose resistance for an instant to my fate
How I'll miss you when you're gone, oh, yeah
I'm a number lower than one
I'm on my own I think this stuff is getting stronger
I'm wide awake and I can't take it any longer
How I'll miss you when you are gone
I'm a number lower than one

Everybody, won't you come with me?
Help me find what I can't see
I'm sick of crawling along the ground
Help me turn my world around
Everybody, won't you come with me?
Everybody, come with me
If I don't find what I've come for
You won't see me anymore

Sometimes it's hard just to find some piece of mind
It feels like I am going crazy almost all of the time
And if we can't live this way then what will I do?
Like my father and my mother I'm depending on you
You've got to fight just to keep your piece of mind
You've got to hold on tight, don't cross that line
Sometimes I cry like a baby when I look outside
I'm on a losing streak, driving through Moss Side
Like the river deep or the ocean wide
Like the river deep or the ocean wide
Like the river deep or the ocean wide
There's a crack in the wall, but I just can't hide