

Elegy, Frenzy

[Music: Henk van der Laars]

[Lyrics & vocal melody: Ian Parry]

Four walls, a ceiling, and a constant fear of the unknown.
Driven by a mother's instinct to protect her child,
her worst nightmares materialise before her very eyes.

[Verse]

A constant fear she has
A mother's instinct to protect
His innocence her child, must not be influenced Surreal nightmares they appear
Before her very eyes
The walls start closing in, then the madness begins

[Bridge]

The consequences of her actions
Into a life of stress he came

[Chorus]

Frenzy, frenzy
On the edge of a nervous breakdown
A living hell, going crazy Frenzy, frenzy
The unknown, eats your soul alive
Your heart pounds, your blood is boiling

[Verse]

In her chaotic mind
The darkest secrets she would tell
And smothered them with tales,
Not for others
A psychological affect, she'd created
Caused the child to change, he was never the same

[Repeat bridge & chorus]

[Ad-libs]

All the king's horses and all the king's men
Telling insane stories over again