

Eleventy Seven, Reach That Far

Don't leave me now my memories are more than I can take tonight and God show me how I'm supposed to trust in things beyond my sight so teach me how to kneel When I don't know how to feel and show you are when my faith can't reach that far

And tell me there is more to this life then only what my heart can see take all these fears make them into more than who I used to be is my soul too blind too see the truth you have for me cause this I feel inside is too weak to survive

(chorus)

My heart has left me alone again is this the beginning? Is this the end?
Is this the time you'll never let me in again?
