Elf Power, Everlasting Scream

Who flies above them all to the past the millions crawl calling from another place where the ancient memories awake don't let them fade the everlasting scream is on the way

Same spirits over me that pull from underneath can you hear just what they say calling out to you so far away don't let them fade the everlasting scream is on the way

Still lying in the dark far away from where you are calling from another place where the ancient memories awake don't let them fade the everlasting scream is on the way
