

Embodiment, Jaywalk

clear your head one-time friend of mine she's cold blue and no skin whisper prayers to make amends no promises to break kiss my face and deny my name once you were my own close your eyes and resist the view and throw your cares away

i called your name, come, come my way i blocked your face, come my way take the night to an open road and choose your morbid fate raise the stakes to a higher plain this is life or death

i called your name, come, come my way