

Emmylou Harris, You'll Never Be The Sun

You'll never be the sun, turning in the sky,
And you won't be the moon above us, on a moonlit night,
And you won't be the stars in heaven, although they burn so bright,
But even on the deepest ocean, you will be the light.
You may not always shine as you go, barefoot over stones.
You might be so long together or you might walk alone.
You won't find that love comes easy, but that love is always right.
So even when the dark clouds gather, you will be the light.
And if you lose the part inside when love turns round on you,
leaving the past behind.
Is knowing you'll do as you'll always do.
Holding you blind, keeping you true.
You'll never be the sun, turning in the sky.
And you won't be the moon above us, on a moonlit night.
And you won't be the stars in heaven although they burn so bright.
But even on the deepest ocean, you will be the light.
You will be the light.
You will be the light.
