Emo Side Project, B-side To Romance

i couldnt think of what to say we had an arugement today i wish that we could still be friends why do you always have to make me out to be the one that ruins your life i wish i meant more to you than just another boy with a broken heart but it keeps running through my head all those messed up things you said i just wish i would die i couldnt think of what to say cut my wrist again today i wish that i could take it back the questions that i always ask are never answered anyway and it hurts me now to think of you but its all that i can do its so hard to let go oh the things ill never know and all my sillly dreams of you being with me have died along with me