Emperor, Ye Entrancemperium

Drawn towards these lands again Seeking death and sacred soil I ride the longing winds of my blackened soul Growing stronger once I enter my empire beyond

Emperium Behold my coming

The fullmoon ride above me Enlightening my realm in a silvery glow Yet the shadows crawl beneath my storming sky Guarding treasures from forbidden light

I still remember, though ages ago it seems The first time I entered the gates The revelation of ritual death By which I became divine Sacrifice of the life I had among the flesh of the light

And now I enter again Even stronger, yet amazed by what I see In ecstasy I mock the world

Suddenly I memorize Asking what I left behind Nothing Can I ever comprehend? Will my longing never end? Never!

Drawn towards these lands again Seeking death and sacred soil I ride the longing winds of my blackened soul Eternally