

Empires, Anywhere

I touch your silver shirt without you in it
Looks like you've been hurt
I'm told to stay here
Police all gather around
They want to know where I've been

You could be anywhere, by design
I forgot you everywhere
And won't you come back here?
You could be anywhere

I search for months around
I finally see you dancing off the ground
I run to meet you
I've been in this room locked inside with you, with you

You could be anywhere, by design
I forgot you everywhere
And won't you come back here?
You could be anywhere

I try not to do this
Your hair's so long, like it was years ago
My fingers needed to touch you like I should have known
I don't think I should stay here
You must but I should go
There's nothing left to do here
I must leave time alone

You could be anywhere, by design
I forgot you everywhere
And won't you come back here?
You could be anywhere
