

Ephyra, Heresy

Heretic plague, seed of rotten beliefs that poison our land we will burn who won't repent

even in the darkest night with no moon and no starlight sun is our father it will soon awake there's no way out prayers are vain you're forsaken in your hands no more lies renounce your sins or you'll be forever damned

heretic plague, seed of rotten beliefs that poison our land
we will burn who won't repent

even in the darkest night
with no moon and no starlight
sun is our father it will soon awake

i can hear you i can feel the rain mother i miss you so

was i dreaming? i was so afraid father i knew you would come tears from the skies. wipe out the false gods and their lies how could it happen, how could the spirit of humans be so full of fear? restless storm breath, bring them back to their seeds of death crash of thunders, steals the warmth from their veins how could it happen, how could the spirit of humans be so full of fear? torches of hate, carriers of the final faith pray for the silence, the quickest death is the only gift we can give you splint of eternity, forever is your rule of equity open your heart, my daughter, there is still hope for the path of the men the temples of the fallen gods will be smashed at all heretics will be burned and order must be restored

father will be finally here to protect us from our sins our funeral pyres
will be its forgiveness path

our fallen hero will be risen from the death you are the one who guides the human race yeah

the poison from our lands will be erased by our will
heretics will be burned and
order must be restored

receiving the human force it will see the whole

our funeral pyres
will be its forgiveness path