Eric Johnson, Alone With You

Everyday

I'm alone with you You know that's the only way I get high My load is light when you shine on through to me My soul you touch by and by So all I want is to leave you something That youalways remember your life through My soul you touch when I'm here with you you know that today you're gonna see What I say is true It's just every little thing you do and I feel that we could touch the sky Yes every little thing you do and you know what I say is true My soul you help to shine on through what you do you do What you do you do when you do yeah It's just every little thing you do And you know what I say is true My soul you help to shine on through Oh by and by, touch the sky, by and by By and by, touch the sky, by and by