

Escape The Day, Still

The sound of a leaving train echoes in the distance
I only came so you could watch me walk away
I could have been the one who's watching
The one who'd stand there and reflect
The moments that I had Before I dreamt myself to death
Now we're on to another place
As the smile on a strangers face... lingers