

Eskobar, Save The Day

Seen you here a thousand times before
I never wondered who you are
Until today I never cared
You read your books and change your looks
And so do I and so I wonder why
Until today I never cared

Do I still care?

I never found it clear, the reason why we're here
The laughter or the tears, and that is how it ought to be
For me and you, now what are we to do, fill it out for you
And maybe we could save the day

Seen you here a thousand times before
I never wondered who you are
Until today I never cared
To ask myself about the reason why
This life is even worth a try
I never cared

Do I still care?

I never found it clear, the reason why we're here
The laughter or the tears, and that is how it ought to be
V For me and you, now what are we to do, fill it out for you
And maybe we could save the day