

Eureka Birds, Goodbye Space and Time

There's a sadness that fills the air today
From the one who no one there could save
You tried to fight, you tried to make a change
But the holy ghost had you cast away

At the oceanside, you watched the tide roll in Wondering where it ends and begins
It all seemed much the same, the same either way
When the voice you had became a memory

Goodbye space. goodbye time. goodbye.