Europe, Wasted Time

(Joey Tempest)

Blood's been spilled throughout all times We should know better since we've been around There's been changes there's no denyin' But in what direction is good sense flying

This world so endless blue Is better for lovers You cry 'cause you don't know if it's true If all those years've been wasted time

Evil strikes, you feel the fear The vision of the future is no longer clear In your mind you see yourself Running and hiding you're somebody else