

Eurythmics, Love Shines

Disappointed, on a cold and weary day
All the little angels have all left and gone away
Crystal is the water that's running down your face
Is pale just like the moonlight on the sad and lonely place
Broken hearted and with reason to be
A cruel and twisted blow from whichever way you see
Man was made to suffer and a woman left to grieve
It makes it hard for even the strongest to believe
Love shines on everything
Love shines on you
Love shines on every little thing
Circumstances have led us to the edge
Broken our wings and given us minds to think instead
With the sky above us and the black old earth below
We're all left there stranded with but there's one thing we must know
That is

Love shines on everything
Love shines on you
Love shines on every little thing
Broken hearted on the planet of decay
Watching Mother Nature just choke and died away
Man has made a prison from a place called paradise
And you could be the jailer if you don't think twice
And let all
Love shine on everyone
Let it shine on you
Let it shine on every little thing
Love shines on everything
Love shines on you
Love shines on every little thing
Every little thing you do
