Evanescence, Together Again

Never thought that I'd be leaving you today So alone and wondering why I feel this way So wide the world Can love remember how to get me home to you Someday

We'll be together again All just a dream in the end We'll be together again

So many fears were swimming around and around in my mind Who would have dreamed the secrets we would find

I've found a world where love and dreams and darkness all collide Maybe this time we can leave our broken world behind

We'll be together again All just a dream in the end