

Exilia, Even If

Even if I know every love affair is a story coming to an end
I'll run a race knowing it's too late, too late for everything
Even if I know that I love in vain, that you will never say my name
That I understand you only to hear that I can never understand
Even if I wait for you knowing that you will never come

Well I'll do it all over, well I'll do it all over, well I'll do it all over again

I'll still wait for you
I'll still love love you
I'll still run for you without you

Even if I know that I'll run a race, a race that I'll lose, that will break my heart
Cause the winner has her friends to help from the very start
Even if I know that to run away will not help will not ever get me another
And that for every single no there's a reason why to discover
And crying lets you know just how deep and long you can suffer in pain

Well I'll do it all over, well I'll do it all over, well I'll do it all over again

I'll still wait for you
I'll still love love you
I'll still run for you without you
I'll still wait for you
I'll still love love you
I'll still run for you without you without you, no

Well I'll do it all over, well I'll do it all over, well I'll do it all over again

I'll still wait for you
I'll still love love you
I'll still run for you without you
I'll still wait for you
I'll still love love you
I'll still run for you without you without you