

Face First, Maybe Someday

The slightest whisper of your voice and my whole world comes apart, hoping to wake up not alone, lying here with you.
Fall asleep with the radio on, song about you till I'm gone.
Set your watch back and remember what you felt.
Remember the hours that we spent writing names on the stair case, know that when I close me eyes, all I see is your face.