

Falconer, Heresy In Disguise

Behind the dark walls dark secrets hide in the shadows An coil presence in the fortress of light Darkness is falling as the spirit of god slips away You're a sinner by night and a holy saint by day

In the sacred corridors evil is set free, lurking among the shadows of the monastery
Heresy in Disguise
Heresy in Disguise

His eyes glow like fire as he turns the ancient pages Discovering mysteries not revealed in many ages Brother William, brother of sin
What do you do as the sun descends?
Beware of what you might see as you open the door to the beast