

Familiar 48, Too Late

Too much like everybody else, you let me fall to my knees again
We can't pretend it's alright, to make it through another night
All this is happening too fast, she said she knew we wouldn't last
And why should everything change, because you decide to remain
We're too late
Took too long
Yeah I thought that we could have had it all
We're too late
Took too long
yeah I thought that we could have had it all, had it all
So much like everybody else, I let you fall at my feet again
Well let's pretend it's alright and make it through another night
I'm not like anybody else, so please don't put me on a shelf.
And why should everything change, because you decide to remain
We're too late
Took too long
Yeah I thought that we could have had it all
We're too late
Took too long
yeah I thought that we could have had it all, had it all