Far-less, A Thin Line

When you dream about a new style You think about a new life You have to walk a thin line I'm a lightning rod for failure Watching karma play her favorites This happens to us all the time But that doesn't feel right

That seems dangerous I happen to know you're headed for nothing at all We build just to fall

Make this night worthy of remembrance May the best dog win I read that this scene with my eyes closed