

Far-less, The Aftermath

What's the deal with this thing they label happiness? i lack finesse to steal your heart i understand now and i've made a mess i must confess that i'm falling apart yesterday she said i want you to change she said rearrange what's important to you check your head she said you'll have to be strong

but if you do this as long as i know you i love you she said

looks like you did it again you're stepping on my heart we're out of touch with everything i'm at the end again again i don't know where to start then i begin remembering that...

yesterday she said i want you to change
she said rearrange what's important to you
check your head she said you'll have to be strong
but if you do this as long as i know you i love you she said...

the aftermath...is a long long time (x2)