

Few Left Standing, Contemplating Spiritual Suicide

sin speaks a dead language that means nothing to you it can't tell you how to live instincts tell us freedom is doing as we wish give yourself to sin and it's your last free act do you call that free life what do you get out of it nothing to be proud of this is where death becomes life a denial to yourself a rebirth from above put an end to old life you must die to yourself no longer constricted God's seed is deep within reborn brand new life breathe freedom
break these chains don't take this suicide for granted to live as Christ and die is gain
