

Few Left Standing, Wormwood

thinking of You breeze is warm make me steadfast in understanding You breathed the word and the stars were born precious memories to many to count wherever You are is where I want to be walking the path that few dare to tread my mind is locked and worries are afar can I ever repay You here's my life You are so beautiful to me