

Fifteen, Who Are We Hurtin' With Our Love

[Words and music by Nancy Delaney]

I've heard it many times before
All is fair in love and war
But now I question everything
What together we might bring
What together we might bring
Who are we hurtin' with our love
Contagious love and secret death
Aren't we protected by our loving breath
It feels so good can't we forget the rest
We feels so good can't we forget the rest
Who are we hurtin' with our love
I've seen it now with my own eyes
How a lovin' person dies
A new disease amongst us stalks
Aids is not just chicken pox
Aids is not just chicken pox
Who are we hurtin' with our love
We are all one now nature says
So now we need careful ways
So our love retains its true intent
And nightmare is not how life is spent
Nightmare is not how life is spent
Who are we hurtin' with our love
