

Filmmaker, Offenses Between Us

If you could recognize the obvious
It all comes down to faults and blame
You're stuck in place you should have never been
Scared to death to start again
We're not through, its not that easy
Never Seem to understand that its all right...
Its ok to question why.

You say there's no getting over these offenses between us
And thats the difference between us

And you fall away from everything we've built
What we can't sustain, just keep unravelling
Am i so old you just hand me down?

If you illuminate the obvious
To shed some light on what went wrong
You're still stuck in places you should have never been
But it won't be long because you can't be by yourself
We're not through, it's not that simple...

You say there's no getting over these offenses between us
And thats the difference between us.

And you fall away from everything we've built
But i won't complain because im not anything

As you fall away away, is this all that there is?
But I won't complain

Because im far away
We build fences when these walls are not enough,
If you can't see it then it's not there.
