Fingertips, Lovers Condemn

Every time i take my life to a place where i could hide you go there to say i'm weak and that i should stay outside...

but do you know when i was on the lights they just gave me endless fights they never gave me something concrete to hold and i always got cold and alone when the sun's going down even lovers condemn they kick you to the ground and you don't understand i'll teach you what's to cry you gotta see it real when your wings stop the flight your certains might fail everyday i lose myself in darkened roads where sadness fell you aren't there, nobody is and something's braking inside

but do you know when i was on the lights
they just gave me endless fights
they never gave me a way so what's the reason for me to stay...