Fish, Forgotten Sons

Armalite, street lights, night-sights

Searching the roofs for a sniper, viper, fighter

Death in the shadows he'll maim you, wound you, he'll kill you

For long-forgotten cause, on not so foreign shores

Boys baptised in wars

Morphine, chill stream, bad dream

Serving as numbers on dogtags, flak-rags, sandbags

Your girl has married your best friend, love's end, poison pen

Your flesh will always creep, tossing turning sleep

The wounds that burn so deep

Your mother sits on the edge of the world

When the cameras start to roll

Panoramic viewpoints resurrect the killing fold

Your father drains another beer he's one of the few that cares

Crawling behind a Saracen's hull

From the safety of his living room chair

Forgotten Sons, forgotten Sons, forgotten Sons

And so I patrol in the valley of the shadow of the Tricolor

I must fear evil for I am but mortal and mortals can only die

Asking questions, pleading answers from the nameless

Faceless watchers that stalk the carpeted corridors of Whitehall

Who order desecration, mutilation, verbal masturbation

In their guarded bureaucratic wombs

Minister, Minister care for your children, order them not

Into damnation to eliminate those who would trespass

Against you, for whose is the kingdom?

The power and the Glory, forever and ever

Amen

Halt who goes there?

death

Approach.... friend

You're just another coffin on its way down the emerald aisle

Where the children's stony glances mourn your death

In a terrorist's smile

The bomber's arm places fiery gifts on the supermarket shelves

Alleys sing with shrapnel, dance in a temporary hell

Forgotten Sons

From the dole queue to the regiment a profession in a flash

But remember Monday's signings when from door to door you dash

On the news a nation mourns your unknown soldier count the cost

For a second you'll be famous but labelled posthumous

Forgotten Sons

Forgotten Sons

Ring o' roses, they all fall down

Peace on earth and mercy mild, Mother Brown has lost her child

Just another Forgotten Son
