Floorpunch, Gaining Ground

It's good to see we're gaining ground And our time has come Now I see what's around I think we may have won So many changes, all the new faces The future looks so bright It's good to see we're going places Looking back, I know we were right

I can just feel the energy flowing through our veins There is always strength in unity it will never be the same All of us made a choice It's time to show our pride now's the time to hear our voice And not keep it bottled inside