Folkearth, The Crimson Wine of Battle

Pallid dawn arrives, Sets a sickly sun alight As we march in line 'Ere we embrace the fight!

Caught in our shields the light Flashes a death's head white -The enemy yonder is a shiver With the cruel spell of fear!

A bitter taste's on my tongue, A blackness pounds in my heart: Revenge!

Wrought by sword, axe and spear, Steeped in the havoc that is to come: Revenge!

And when I vest my flashing sword And my hand on judgment takes hold, Warlord in the brooding sky above -Count me among thy heroes of old!

"Battle-frenzy serves the brave In skull-hewn cups of frothing red The crimson wine of battle, the draught Of immortality from the vineyards of war!"