Foo Fighters, World

When all is said and done And the air we breathe is not enough To keep these broken wings, floating Carry on into the sun, into the sun On into the sun On into the sun

Looking down at you, sleeping From above, I love Looking down at you, weeping From above, my love

Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns Over and over again I find the soul that burns And if it has no end The lonely heart that learns Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns

When all is dead and gone And the air we breathe is not enough To keep these dying arms, see them Carry on into the sun, into the sun Im not the only one Im not the only one

Heaven skies are reelin' And my hand that holds the world Deep inside i'm reachin' Into the universe

Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns Over and over again I find the soul that burns And if it has no end The lonely heart that learns Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns

Oh Oh

Oh

Oh oh Oh

Oh

Oh

Oh

Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns Over and over again i find the soul that burns And if it has no end The lonely heart that learns Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns

Oh Oh

Oh

Oh oh

Oh Oh Oh

Over and over again I ride the wheel that turns Over and over again i find the soul that burns