

ForDireLifeSake, 10-31-99

So it's all been lost, and still you bite your tongue. In time we will hide our thoughts behind open roads and skylines. The silent eyes that break inside. Love hides eyes this drive, while we waste time. Inside love hides. So it's all been lost. What we've become. The silent eyes that will never speak this time. We can't hold back, and lose all we love. And all we'll lose is what we love. I won't let this happen, and kill the times. The dreams that die. I memory in time. No, I won't forget.