

Forest Of Shadows, Wish

Awakened this dying season such a beauty to behold
Oh autumn hath arrived a tragedy painted dead
Fallen am I without thee I am lost
In a region of doleful shades I am withering away
I dwell in the shadows of life
A dismal state of mind I'm in pain
Oh sun I hate thy beams
Leave me here to sleep and dream
In the midst of falling leaves
In a garden of endless grief
I yearn for thee my precious one
Beneath a pale grey sky I dream of your embrace
How I wish I had yo near in this oh so dolorous life
Where dreams turn to dust I have lost all my hope
Of lasting pain and unresent bliss
This soul of mine I welcome thee
Eternal sleep
Silent advent of white death
I feel so cold
Silent advent of white death
I feel so cold
Crystallized tears falling still
Oh autumn hath died
Enshrouded am I in thy mist of endless gloom
Enthralled am I by thy beauty
How I wish how I wish
In the midst of falling snow
In a garden of endless grief
My forlorn soul of misery
Where peace and rest can never dwell
Hope never comes
I see no point in going on
Still I dream but now I know
I dream a lie so I close my eyes and I sigh
A life of shattered dreams I can no longer bear
I enter thee eternal sleep