

Forever Changed, The Runaway

I see that behind your eyes you're filled with fear, but you just run away.
You want to sit down, you want to talk now... let us get beyond this somehow.
Broken hearts are meant to be free.
Instead you crawl back, your eyes have turned black.
Falling down so everyone will see that never once did you believe.
Don't go. You just run away, you just run away from me.
Turn and run away from who you're meant to be.
Clearer and clearer, you're drawing nearer.
When you return I will be here, I promise this is where you belong.
But you just leave it, you never want it because every time it's just the same old story
"Will you ever let me be?"
Don't go. You just run away, you just run away from me.
Turn and run away from who you're meant to be.