

Fractured, She

Everytime you speak my name my ears will ring drive me insane all I ever wanted it's all you ever gave to me Everytime you reach out to me, embrace the love you cannot see emptiness you feed on me from the inside

One day I hope things will be different for you and me and until that day arrives I must make sure I survive You lift me up and throw me down never saved me
let me drown
I'm dying here without you dying and you never knew

Never knew how things could be all alone just you and me death is all that I fear what I leave behind sincere I can only care so much longing for your softest touch Until I cannot stand the pain until my wishes are in vain

and until that day arrives I must make sure I survive
never saved me
let me drown
I'm dying here without you

You lied to me, straight faced all the time was just a waste There was nothing I could ever say to get you to think this way Psychotic demands, in the end you'll reprimand, standing in the pouring rain with nothing left to explain

and until that day arrives I must make sure I survive
You lift me up and throw me down
never saved me
let me drown
I'm dying here without you
