

Franco Battiato, A Cell

All my cells start to change and my body has new life molecules that will die that heredity has left to me I'll be a cell among motors as a cell, I'll live the two of us together we will travel quicker than light around the sun like time machines fighting against the time
I'll be a cell among motors
as a cell I'll live.