

Freddie Hart, Whole World Holding Hands

Everybody in the whole world holding hands

Every boy and every girl will feel the arms of love
Every crying face can wear a smile again
People pulling all together loving helping one another
Everybody in the whole world holding hands
Oh how green will grow the grass love can rule the world at last
Like a child can understand everybody in the whole world holding hands

There'll be food for all to eat shoes for everybody's feet
And room enough for all to have a piece of land
And the wars cannot exist when there's all togetherness
Everybody in the whole world holding hands
Oh how green will grow...
Oh how green will grow...
