

Frenzal Rhomb, Writing's On The Wall

I have seen the wasted youth that have no fear of dying seen the other prophecies that we should start denying look at my, look at my plan ahead ??? coming to a head there'll be black thunder, there'll be lightening I've seen a million faces, I've seen a million days take a look down and realise there's not much left to say this might change your mind

I've seen the writing on the wall, and I know it all too well I've heard enough, the road is looking rough I know this all too well superstition, do you believe ??? another seven you might aswell convince yourself that we're all going to heaven can't believe in a sacred god that gives me wine from water he'll never ??? what's around the corner

I look back and wonder just why no one saw it coming I'm looking forward to the time we're fighting and we're running we can live another thousand years, oh I can tell so your apocalyptic thoughts will lead you straight to hell